

Pfizer Applauds House of Representatives for Passing the 21st Century Cures Act

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 10, 2015 - Today marks an important step to advance the 21st Century Cures Act. The bi-partisan effort puts patients first and addresses several challenges in the drug development process. 21st Century science requires 21st Century regulatory systems and delivery of care that gets new treatments and cures to patients faster. Pfizer has led the way in bringing treatment advances to market for conditions ranging from heart disease to infections. With an environment that supports innovation, this cycle can continue for many other conditions. We will continue to work with Congress to help maintain American leadership in medical innovation by supporting patient-focused healthcare.
